AssetBook ARO Manager The reliable way to balance risk with reward

Before integrating XI technologies into our workflow in 2019, our ARO process was chaotic and scattered. We struggled to gather and consolidate data from various sources, often questioning its reliability and currency.

Since implementing ARO Manager, our experience has transformed. The platform efficiently organizes all our raw ARO data, making quarterly updates a breeze. Uploading new or disposed licenses is a simple task, thanks to user-friendly templates. Navigating through XI's interface is intuitive, providing quick access to the information we need.

The 'All Licenses' extract has become a cornerstone of our ARO reporting. It enables us to categorize licenses by project, geographic area, wells, and facilities, facilitating seamless integration with our ARO models. This extract not only powers our quarterly reporting but also serves as a valuable resource for ad-hoc data retrieval.

Using ARO Manager has standardized our quarterly process, making it easy for newcomers to learn. We trust ARO Manager to provide the most current government data, ensuring the accuracy and reliability of our models. As a result, our ARO process has become more efficient and dependable.

From a finance perspective, ARO Manager is integral to our workflow. It simplifies the integration of new drills, facilities, acquisitions, and disposals into our models, ultimately saving us time and effort.

Our experience with KPMG audits has been smooth since adopting XI in 2019. While they haven't specifically questioned our use of ARO Manager, its seamless integration has undoubtedly contributed to our audit success.

I highly recommend ARO Manager, it's a game-changer, especially for those still relying on Excel for ARO data management. Upstream oil and gas companies stand to benefit greatly from its efficiency and reliability.

In terms of support, any minor issues I've encountered have been swiftly resolved by the live chat help desk. Overall, my experience with ARO Manager has been excellent. It's user-friendly, efficient, and has significantly streamlined our ARO process.
